

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method and system for obtaining and exchanging goods using a network system that includes a game center based computer to assist customers of a game center. Goods can be offered to customers and allowed to be exchanged by customers via use of an account that is registered as belonging to the customer.

105020" 5945260